Generals' Revolt Goes on Over Program

Ike Note May Keep Door Open for Summit Talk

Answer to Soviet Will Reject Early Conclave

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is expected to send Soviet Premier Bulganin a message this weekend holding open the door to an eventual summit conference, but rejecting Bulganin's bid for such a session within three months.

Eisenhower's reply has been coordinated with those going from the government chiefs of Britain, France and other allied nations in response to a series of notes Bulganin sent free world leaders in December. It is understood the replies also will cover the substance of new Bulganin messages to NATO leaders and heads of many other governments this week.

Disagrees on Time
Secretary of State Dulles gave the guidelines of U. S. policy at a news conference yesterday. He said no summit meeting should be held as Bulganin proposed on Thursday—within two or three months. But Dulles left open the possibility of some future top level session provided "there is adequate preparation for it and a reasonable assurance that it will accomplish some desirable result."

Dulles denounced Bulganin's Thursday message as a propaganda move designed to steal world attention from Eisenhower's State of the Union message that same day. Dulles deplored such use of "the channels of communication between heads of government."

Concedes Lead
The secretary conceded under questioning that the Soviets seem to be ahead of the United States in propaganda techniques, as they apparently are in the science of missiles. But he said this is "in the long run these are not times for that kind of smartness." He accused the Soviets of trying to cover up bad policies on such matters as disarmament with clever propaganda.

Throughout much of his news conference, Dulles assailed Soviet bad faith in making and then not keeping agreements. But at the end he said "you have got to keep trying and trying through meetings and negotiations with the Russians to work out agreements which can be kept."

No Solution on Arms
Dulles said the Soviet proposal for an agreement to ban the use of nuclear weapons would not work and that the Kremlin's proposal to call off tests of such weapons would not advance disarmament "one inch."

Asked whether Bulganin's second round of letters would delay answers from the United States and other NATO members to the December broadside from Moscow, Dulles said it would not especially since there was nothing new in the most recent messages. It was understood that the western replies, at least the reply from the United States, would be dispatched to the Kremlin promptly.

Denial Is Made of Bribe Role West N. Y. Police Head Hiding Out

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — A reporter says he talked to West New York Police Commissioner Ernest J. Modarelli in a "snug hideaway" and that the commissioner denied any part in an alleged $1,000 bribe offer.

The New Jersey Law Enforcement Council has been trying to find Modarelli for over a week to question him about a bribe allegedly offered by West New York Police Captain Chris Gleitsman to two New York State policemen. Modarelli plans to remain in hiding until the life of the LEC—created by legislative resolution—expires next week, reporter Gene Scanlon of the Jersey Journal said yesterday.

Sees Political Move
"It's a political move to embarrass, harass and humiliate men," Scanlon quoted Modarelli as saying.

Charles J. Tyne, LEC counsel, said the council had no plans at the moment to find Modarelli. "The uncertainty of the council just frustrates us," Scanlon said that Modarelli had told the LEC everything he knew about the case in private testimony.

Druggists Are Not In Agreement Yet On Sunday Closing

Inability to get the druggists of Kingston to a meeting this week has delayed the conference which was scheduled for further discussion of a proposal to have all but two drug stores close on Sundays, with the various stores alternating on Sunday service.

A proposed policy to close drug stores in Kingston on Sunday, except for two designated stores each week to serve the public, was made by the Ulster County Pharmaceutical Society. The plan was to have one store in the uptown area open and one downtown so that the city would be adequately served. Other stores which would remain closed would display in the store a sign indicating which stores were open on that particular Sunday. The stores would remain open under a schedule approved by the druggists.

Ave Approves Three-State Study of Income Tax Law

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Averell Hartman of New York has agreed to a special three-state study of New York's non-resident income tax.

He acted yesterday after the governors of Connecticut and New Jersey told him that New York takes unfair advantage of residents of their states who work in New York.

About 175,000 commuters from Connecticut and New Jersey work in New York. Through a New York State personal income tax on these commuters the Empire State's treasury picks up more than 25 million dollars a year.

The complaint of Govs. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut is this:

Residents of their states who work in New York have to pay personal income taxes. Unlike New York residents, they are subject to compulsory withholding of the tax.

Citrus Loss To Cold Put About 20 PC

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — December frost damage to Florida fruit was assessed as high as 20 per cent but growers consoled themselves today with a growing prospect of premium prices for oranges and grapefruit that escaped harm.

Big Return Seen
Average prices already were up for both raw and processed citrus, although damaged fruit brought little more than production cost. Growers with high quality fruit held onto it in apparent anticipation of a handsome return in the market when the supply picture clears.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimated yesterday that 22 million boxes of Florida oranges were lost in the record December freeze. It wrote off four million boxes of grapefruit and 1½ million boxes of tangerines. In its last previous estimate of Florida citrus, the USDA looked for a record 102 million box orange crop, 36 million boxes of grapefruit and 4½ million boxes of tangerines.

The USDA estimates were as of Jan. 1 and did not include any losses from this week's freeze. They are not expected to be heavy, however.

Orange Supply Low
Pointing up the expectations of higher prices for growers for remaining fruit, Florida Citrus Mutual, a big grower cooperative, said the U. S. supply of oranges is the smallest since the 1949-50 season.

Damage to trees from the December and January freezes probably will result in substantial reductions in the Florida crop for the next two or three years from what might have been expected, the grower cooperative said.

Parley Set Monday For Consolidation

Meeting at Katrine School May Fix Vote Date; Rural Area Plight Told

An important meeting on the Greater Kingston Area School Consolidation has been called by the Consolidation Committee of the area to be held Monday, Jan. 13, at 7:30 p. m. at the Lake Katrine School.

This meeting was called following a meeting last Monday of the Chambers School board and a report will be made on the results of a visit yesterday by Principal Reginald Russell of the Chambers School and District Superintendent Clarence Johnson to Albany where they met with Francis Griffin and Robert Coughlin of the Bureau of Administrative Services, State Education Department, for discussion of the consolidation problem.

Plans Set for Vote

An invitation has been extended to all school board members and principals of the area in the proposed consolidation district to attend this very important meeting and discuss consolidation and to fix a date for voting on that proposition in the very near future.

At the meeting held Friday in Albany with Griffin and Coughlin and District Superintendent Clarence Johnson, it was stated that everything was now completed to bring the matter to a vote by the people of the area.

Principal Russell plans to meet with the rural trustees at the Monday meeting and make a full report on the results of the meeting at Albany.

Big Attendance Sought

This meeting, Principal Russell said today was a most important meeting and he urges all school boards and principals in the proposed consolidation district to attend.

It was announced that something will have to be done very soon on the matter of consolidation if the sixth and seventh grade pupils involved are to be given adequate consideration next fall.

"Rural areas are in a bad predicament," Russell said, "and we must begin to make plans for the next school year."

An early vote on consolidation, which it is reported the State Department on Friday said could adequately filtered and chlorinated.

Renasselaer Board Bids City Act Now on Dangerous Water
RENSSELAER (AP)—Mayor Clarence McNally today promised to give full consideration to a county health department warning that disease might break out unless something is done about the water supply.

But McNally maintained that a city chemist had tested the water Tuesday afternoon and that it had passed the "standard test as to quality."

The Rensselaer County board said Thursday night it might have to issue a "boiled water" order unless the city "gives proper and immediate attention to its water supply."

Rensselaer draws its water from the Hudson River. A number of upstream communities pump sewage into the river. Among them is Troy, 11 miles north of Rensselaer.

"I drank Rensselaer water this morning before I read the paper," McNally said, "and I drank several glasses afterward."

Dr. John J. Quinlan, president of the county board, said in a public statement that a survey had found the Rensselaer water to be "dangerous and prohibitive for use."

Dr. Andrew C. Fleck, county health commissioner, said today that hepatitis, a liver ailment, and Cocksackie virus were among the diseases that might break out as a result of polluted water. He said he was not certain whether there was any danger of typhoid.

Dr. Fleck said his department for several years had considered Rensselaer water as potentially dangerous. In the last few days, he said, the potentiality had been fulfilled.

McNally said that to his recollection there never had been an epidemic in Rensselaer caused by drinking water.

The survey report, compiled by a three-member investigating committee, said the water was in-

Weissman Quiz Set On Monday

Five Are Arrested Here on Friday

The controversial Petford charges brought by a local political leader are scheduled for an airing before the Ulster County Grand Jury Monday as the area investigations kettle continues to boil in probe-ridden Kingston.

Saul Weissman, 306 Gregg Avenue, Teaneck, N. J., owner of the Petford Company, is expected to appear at that time to testify in connection with charges that the firm was a "dummy" formed for the purpose of "robbing" the people of Kingston. He was served with a subpoena last Thursday.

The charges were brought by Worthington L. Rider, defeated Economy Party candidate for mayor of Kingston in the last election.

Both Testify
On Friday both Rider and Harry Thayer, Ellenville editor and village trustee, appeared before the January Grand Jury now meeting in the Ulster County courthouse.

Thayer charged last fall that he had been approached and offered a "kickback" by representatives of an oil company if he would throw the village business to the firm. Thayer said he ordered the person out of his office.

He stated that the oil company was not an Ulster County firm. Yesterday five residents of the city of Kingston were picked up on bench warrants—four as common gamblers and one on a charge of selling liquor to minors.

Testers Are Figuring on 2 Baby Moons

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The nation's testers of space vehicles, having launched two 5,000-mile missiles within four hours, turned their attention today to efforts to put two baby moons into the sky.

The launchings Friday of an Atlas ballistic missile and a Navaho Ramjet vehicle both were successful. The Navaho took off ballistic-fashion under the power of two liquid propellant rockets considerably longer than the missile itself. The rocket boosters drove it off into the ocean after about 40 miles of flight. After the Navaho attained supersonic speed its Ramjet engine was able to take over.

Short of Range
Both missiles were believed to have flown several hundred miles, far short of their designed range.

One of the satellites, designed as a civilian scientific project under the Navy's management, will be an aluminum sphere only 6.4 inches in diameter and weighing about 34 pounds. It will be launched by the three-stage, 72-foot-long Vanguard rocket.

The other will be a metal cylinder 80 inches long and six inches in diameter, weighing 23.7 pounds. It will be the final stage of the Army's Jupiter-C missile.

Details of the satellite launch preparations were secrets locked behind the high fence that cuts off the Air Force missile test center here from the rest of the world.

In Process of Assembly
But it was known that both missiles are here, in varying stages of the complex program of assembly.

Both the Navy and the Army have announced their intention to launch the satellites as soon as possible. They have been ordered to do so in belated efforts to match in part the Soviet achievements with two Sputnik moons.

Persons close to the programs expect the Vanguard attempt to come possibly next week and that of the Jupiter-C a week or so later.

Space Agency Challenge 'Unfortunate': Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Flinders (R-Vt) said today he considers it "unfortunate" that an Air Force general has challenged President Eisenhower's program setting up a unified space agency in the Pentagon.

It was disclosed last night that Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever had told the Senate preparedness subcommittee he thought the new agency now being organized would duplicate already existing

Air Force capabilities. He is the Air Force missiles chief.

Told by Air Force
Schriever's testimony was given behind closed doors on Thursday, the day Eisenhower informed Congress in his State of the Union message that "all the antimissile and satellite technology undertaken within the Department of Defense" would be concentrated in the new Advanced Research Projects Agency.

The testimony of Schriever, who also voiced other criticisms of missile and satellite policies, was released last night by the Air Force in a departure from normal procedure. Generally in such cases, the Pentagon permits the congressional committee to release testimony.

Schriever thus became the third high military officer to criticize administration defense planning this week in what some have tagged "the revolt of the generals."

In an interview, Flinders said: "It seems the President showed leadership in straightening out the armed forces, and if his first move is publicly condemned by one of the services I think that is unfortunate."

Other senators, however, said Schriever was just being frank and airing a serious disagreement.

Hits Missile Handling

Schriever criticized the Defense Department decision to use both the Army Jupiter and the Air Force Thor, 1,500-mile range intermediate range ballistic missiles. He indicated he thought greater missile strength could be achieved sooner by concentrating on the Thor.

The general also said the Air Force could immediately undertake several space projects by modifying the Thor. He said these included putting a satellite into orbit and making unmanned reconnaissance trips to the Moon, Mars and Venus "at a relatively early date."

So far, the Air Force has had no role in the country's effort to launch an earth satellite. The Navy's Vanguard project had sole responsibility for this until after the Russians launched two Sputniks last fall when the Army was ordered into the program. Vanguard's first try at launching a test satellite failed on Dec. 6.

Earlier in the week, the pre-heard two other generals voice strong criticism of defense policies.

Quit Over Conditions

Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, chief of Army research and development, said he is retiring March 31 because he contended the Army is deteriorating rapidly and "I can't get anything done about it." He said that for the past four years Army strength and appropriations have been whittled down.

And Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, told the subcommittee Eisenhower had not asked enough money for a planned stepup in work on 5,000-mile range intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The subcommittee continues its hearings next week.

There were other missile developments yesterday:

Woman's Club Is Not in Rosendale Town Hall Rift

The Woman's Club of Rosendale is not pressing for the town hall there to be used by a justice of the peace to hold court.

This was announced today by the president, Mrs. Gene Van Winkle, who said, "the club is of a civic and social nature. We do not take sides in matters political."

Last Monday at a town board meeting, Justice of the Peace William P. Curran, elected on the Democratic ticket last November, made a request to use the hall for court sessions, which was refused.

Republicans Opposed

Three Republicans voted against the proposal, Councilmen Arthur Hahn and Arthur Merrihew, and Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky. They were strongly opposed.

Democratic Supervisor George Mollenhauer joined Curran in his plan to hold justice's court at the hall each Monday at 7 p. m.

A report of the meeting said a representative of the Woman's Club of Rosendale would request a resolution by the club at its next meeting.

No Verdict Yet In Boy's Death

Verdict in the death of Jesse B. Chambers Jr., 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Chambers of 19 West Union Street, who was found dead in the bathroom of his home about 7 a. m. Friday, is still pending.

An autopsy was performed yesterday by Dr. Herbert Derman of the Kingston Laboratory but processing and microscopic work was continued this morning.

Coroner Francis J. McCordie ordered the autopsy after his initial investigation failed to indicate a cause of death.

It was reported that the boy watched television until after midnight and then went to the bathroom where he was found that morning fully clothed.

The funeral will be held at 15 Downs Street, at 2 p. m. Monday with the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, officiating. Burial will be in Wiltyck Cemetery. Friends may call any time Saturday and Sunday.

Monnet Is Unlikely To Ask Direct Aid

PARIS (AP)—French economic expert Jean Monnet will fly to Washington tonight with high hopes of raising most of half a billion dollars France needs in 1958 to back up a drive for financial stability.

Monnet will not ask for direct aid from the United States. Officials here realize that could probably not be obtained at this time.

But he is likely to ask postponement of interest payments due on existing French debts to the U. S. government and the Export-Import Bank. And he will raise all the foreign credits he can from international institutions where American good will can largely influence success.

To gain that good will Monnet stuffed a briefcase with evidence he hopes will show that French inflation is at an end and financing can now be done through savings instead of inflation.

Upstate Grangers Are Warned About Crime

SYRACUSE (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney says "a United Nations of Crime" is stretching its tentacles into Upstate New York.

Organized crime has moved into agriculture through the produce business, the Republican leader asserted. From there, he added, "it is just a short step to control of the state's milk supply."

Mahoney spoke last night to a meeting of the legislative conference of the State Grange. Upstate New Yorkers, he declared, had "better come to their senses."

The majority leader told the grange that the Alapachin gangland meeting last Nov. 14 had "world-wide connotations with indications that organized gangsters operate in every large urban community in the western world."

Chambers School Board Appoints Penrose Trustee

During the regular meeting of the Board of Education of Chambers School, Town of Ulster, this week the appointment of W. J. Penrose was unanimously approved to serve until the next annual meeting as trustee in place of Harold Keator Jr., who recently resigned when he moved from the district.

A report on the music convention at Rochester was given by Mrs. Marjorie Van Voorhis. Mrs. Delores Rabbottini, nurse teacher, also gave a report.

Three Teachers Resign
The board accepted letters of resignation from Miss Betsy DeWitt, Miss Josephine Ambrose and Miss Ellen O'Reilly who are leaving to be married. Mrs. DeWitt was also granted Mrs. James Kelly and Mrs. Michael Cacciollo.

Notice of the draft status of Robert Corcoran was also given the board. Corcoran expects to enter the service in February.

After some discussion regarding the future eighth grade program for the next school year it was decided that because of its great importance a special meeting will be held next week to plan the program and service.

Discuss Consolidation
Consolidation was discussed at some length and Principal Reginald Russell said he had an appointment with Francis Griffin and Robert Coughlin of the Bureau of Rural Administrative Services, State Education Department, at Albany for the purpose of discussing future status of a Consolidated School District and also plans for a junior high school. That meeting was to be held Friday in Albany with the state officials and District Superintendent of Schools Clarence Johnson, he reported.

New Paltz School Lists Activities

Nearly every student in grade seven through twelve at the New Paltz Central School will have the opportunity to participate in the schools club program.

Music and athletics head the list of activities. Approximately 160 different students are in the music programs such as: band, orchestra, and choral groups. Students receive regular school credit for participating in these activities. Many students who are active in the school's music activities have participated in and have been recognized in state music competitions. Others have earned their college expenses by playing a musical instrument that they had learned to play in high school.

Active in Basketball
More than 60 boys will be active in intramural basketball. Thirty-nine girls are reported to be active in the girls athletic association. Early in the school year the whole school participated in a track meet where all boys and girls take part.

Varsity sports at New Paltz Central School includes: football, basketball, track, and baseball. There are also junior varsity and junior high teams.

Each class and homeroom have representatives active in the schools student council and class organizations.

Other clubs and activities include Cheerleaders, Science Club, Junior High Dramatics, Art Club, Film Club, Bachelors Club, and Chess Club. Also included are Scholastic paper, yearbook, hall monitors, Rifle Club, Four H Club, and Future Farmers of America.

Eight Period Sessions
Frederick Dipple supervising principal said that all students are in school for eight periods plus lunch. He also notes that most students take five subjects. Additional periods in the day are utilized as study periods and for participating in clubs and activities. More than 200 hundred students participate in the extra curricular program of activities.

The club program is coordinated by Raymond Buckley, assistant principal. Each club or activity is supervised by school faculty members.

New clubs are initiated when a substantial group of students indicate an interest, when a faculty supervisor is obtained and when room space is available. Students must maintain satisfactory school grades in their regular school subjects to play in varsity sports. The school guidance director is responsible to see that they are keeping up with the studies and not taking too many activities.

Denial Is Made
many last October. "Why doesn't the Law Enforcement Council make public my sworn testimony?" Modarelli said.

Scanlon said the commissioner "didn't say anything in the alleged bribe attempt."

Made to Crosswell
The two New York policemen, Sgt. Edgar Corwell and Trooper Vincent Vasiko, testified Monday before the LEC that Gleitsman had offered them $1,000 if an ex-convict—Carmine Galante of Brooklyn—did not go to jail for three traffic violations. They said Gleitsman told them he was acting on Modarelli's orders.

Scanlon said Modarelli told him he had never heard of Galante. "I never knew him, never saw him," he said.

The LEC has been probing the role played by New Jersey residents in the gangland convention Nov. 14 at Apalachin, N. Y. However, its hearings were mainly concerned with the bribe case.

leader, Joseph Carlino of Nassau County.

Dickinson said that when he told Carlino of Galente's criminal record Carlino told him to drop the matter. Carlino said he knew nothing about Galente but a lawyer friend had asked him to make the inquiry.

Passannante said he too called Dickinson at the urging of a lawyer friend. He declined to name the friend.

Asked what he did after Dickinson had turned down the case, Passannante replied, "nothing." He also said he knew nothing about Galente. "Lawyers often get requests from other lawyers for such assistance."

He said the friend asked him to recommend an Upstate lawyer to handle charges against Galente of speeding, driving without a license, and using another man's registration.

Passannante, a former assistant U. S. attorney in the southern New York district, is a member of the Manhattan Democratic organization headed by Carmine De Sapio, secretary of state.

Earlier last night, former Binghamton Mayor Donald W. Kramer confirmed that he had acted as attorney for Galente in the traffic case.

"After I got into it I became aware of his record and advised him to plead guilty," Kramer told The Associated Press.

Kramer, a Democrat, was mayor of Binghamton at the time and was serving as Upstate manager for New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner's unsuccessful campaign to win election to the U. S. Senate.

Galente has been sought for questioning about the famed underworld conclave at Apalachin that state police broke up Nov. 14. Subpoena servers have been unable to find him.

State police say Galente did not attend the Apalachin meeting but was on hand for a similar one held in a Binghamton hotel in October 1956. He was arrested on the traffic charges Oct. 17, 1956, near Binghamton, fined $150 and jailed for 30 days.

Two state troopers have testified that two policemen from West New York, N. J., offered them $1,000 if they could keep Galente out of jail on the charges.

Druggists Are Not

Street, chairman of the Sunday closing committee of the county society, said the attitude of one firm has resulted in postponement of the plan pending another meeting.

The plan was advanced after a conference with District Attorney St. John on the law which prohibits sale of items other than drugs as prescribed in the Sunday "blue law."

Recently notice was served on businesses which under the Sunday closing law are prohibited from remaining open on Sunday, that the state law would be enforced. There are certain types of business which may legally remain open on Sundays such as restaurants, gas stations, drug stores, newsstands etc., but sale of other than drug items by druggist is frowned upon by the law.

McCormack said Friday the meeting would probably be held some time next week and after this conference an announcement would be forthcoming regarding the plan to close all but two drug stores on Sundays.

Picked up on a charge of selling intoxicating liquors to minors was Jean Alden, 51, of 65 Elmendorf Street.

All were released in $250 bail. Weissman was scheduled to appear before the grand jury earlier this week but requested an adjournment until Monday in order to permit him to return to New Jersey to pick up records and documents which he may require on appearance.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John said he had granted the postponement of Weissman's appearance.

No One Delegated
Mrs. Van Winkle said today that no club member was delegated to attend the town board meeting, or to make a statement involving the organization. "We are non-political," she stressed again.

She added that Mrs. Martin Joyce, a member did attend the town board session, and had every right to express her views as a taxpayer if she so desired.

The club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Vernon Fresno. Mrs. Van Winkle said, and there was no resolution passed in favor of using the town hall as a court room.

In making his request to the board, Justice Curran stressed the fundamental doctrine that every citizen is entitled to a public trial and not trials behind closed doors.

Councilman Hahn held that a justice court should not be open to the public. Councilman Merrihew was of the opinion the town hall is for legislative purposes, and judicial proceedings have no place there. Justice Brodsky concurred. He holds court at his home.

SALK VACCINE PROBLEM

All the evidence mustered to date indicates that the Salk polio vaccine is a smashing success. It has sharply reduced polio rates in the United States. How baffling to learn, then, that millions of Americans are not taking advantage of the vaccine's protection.

Because of what the Health News Institute describes as an apathetic public attitude, manufacturers of the vaccine may have to destroy hundreds of thousands of doses which have become outdated. The makers gear their output to meet demand on a year-round basis.

Most astonishing is the news from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis that there are still some 16 million youngsters under 20 who have not had any Salk shots. In the age brackets under 40, the total without vaccination is about 45 million people.

According to Chet Shaw, the Institute's executive vice president, the age group under 20 accounts for about three fourths of all the polio cases in the nation.

If any large proportion of these are to be protected at the height of the 1958 polio season next August and September, they need to begin taking the series of three shots right now. Eight months' time is required for the full sequence to run.

This puzzling situation, with vast quantities of vaccine growing stale while many millions still need it but won't act to get it, makes a mockery out of the frenzy over polio shown by many before the vaccine was discovered.

One cannot help recalling the frantic mothers who stormed the doors of city authorities, seeking any kind of aid at all when earlier polio epidemics struck. One thinks, too, of the millions earmarked for polio research, sometimes at the expense of research into other diseases and in basic science generally.

When Dr. Jonas Salk developed his vaccine, he answered those frantic cries and justified the spending of much money. No one with good sense would want his great achievement to be wasted, even in part.

But that waste can evidently be averted only if millions of Americans, particularly those under 20, start lining up again to get their polio shots, as they should have been doing all along.

An American business man recently offered a prayer that we be saved from ourselves. Considering the fact that we are our own worst enemies, that is rather a large order.

Nelson Rockefeller is reported losing interest in a proposal that he seek the New York Republican nomination for governor. And it is not because he can't afford the campaign expenses.

Advising people not to worry is presumptuous unless it is known what they are worrying about.

POSTAL REVOLUTION

Anyone who gave more than passing thought to the annual Christmas season mail rush will take it as good news that the nation's postal service is on the verge of a big modernization program. A change to more efficient methods that will consume less manpower and get the job done faster is long overdue.

What the Post Office Department contemplates is a far greater and more imaginative use of machinery to do the work of men. Clyde Gray, the department's director of research and engineering, says that the new system will be operating in the nation's 50 largest post offices by 1968.

Ten years is a long time. It seems reasonable, however, when one considers the antiquated methods in use today, even in the largest post offices. Switching to machines, and at the same time keeping up with the rising flood of mail, will be nothing short of revolutionary. Whenever it is accomplished, it will be welcome.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
SPUTNIK HERE WE COME

I received a circular issued by a group in Levittown, New York, an enormous small home community. This circular is an example of the excitement engendered by Sputnik. Most of it deals with education. Sputnik more than all the arguments and propaganda and P.T.A. meetings has made parents conscious of the education that their children are receiving.

They are not yet conscious of the fact that a school teacher in a city of the size and wealth of New York earns about as much as a porter who sweeps the platform in the subway.

The Levittown circular tells the parents this story:

In Russia In Levittown
4th grade—biology None
5th grade—foreign languages None
6th grade—physics, algebra & geometry None
7th grade—chemistry None

"But what is really startling is the comparison of the pupil's achievement after only 10 years of study in Russia as compared with 12 years of study in Levittown."

"In Russia all high school graduates have taken:
5 years of physics
5 years of biology
4 years of chemistry
5 years of advanced math
6 years of foreign languages
1 year of astronomy
In Levittown more than half the graduates have taken:
no physics
no biology
no chemistry
no advanced mathematics
no foreign languages
no astronomy."

The psychological effect of Sputnik is not that it scared the American people. They are not scared. They are fighting mad. They have spent millions of dollars on schools, on colleges, on teachers and professors and they are beginning to ask what they got for their money. This is a question that will not subside and neither the politicians nor the professional educators can rationalize it away because how come we are doing so badly?

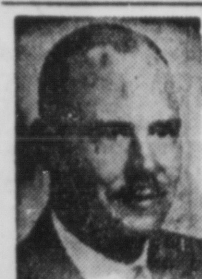

It reminds me of a letter that Mark Twain wrote in 1862 and which I recently read in "American Heritage," a most remarkable publication. In the first paragraph of that letter, Mark Twain wrote:

"It appears to me that the very existence of the United States is threatened just now. I am afraid we have been playing the game of brag about as recklessly as I have ever seen it played."

And in the same publication there is a letter from Walt Whitman, the poet, dated a year later in 1863, in which he speaks of Abraham Lincoln: "... He has a face like a Hoosier Michael Angelo, so awful ugly it becomes beautiful, with its strange mouth, its deep cut, criss-cross lines, and its doughnut complexion. My notion is too, that underneath his outside smutched manner, and stories from third-class county barroom, Mr. Lincoln keeps a fountain of first-class practical telling wisdom. I do not dwell on the supposed failures of his government; he has shown, I sometimes think an almost supernatural tact in keeping the ship afloat at all, with head steady, not only not going down, and now certain not to, but with proud and resolute spirit, and flag flying in sight of the world, menacing and high as ever. I say never yet captain, never ruler, had such a perplexing dangerous task as his, the past two years. I more and more rely upon his idiomatic western genius, careless of court dress or court decorums."

Mark Twain, Walt Whitman and Abraham Lincoln came up from among the lowliest of our people and they left immortal footprints upon our history. The point is that once the people are aroused, a million free minds, from the most unexpected places, go to work on the problem. They will cut through the red-tape that a bureaucracy has woven like a web about the giant. They will sweep away the time-servers and the time-wasters, the sycophants and clock-watchers, the politicians and private empire-builders like so many fleas on the tail of a dog.

Then we shall get to work and the slogan will be, "Sputnik, here we come." And where is it all to begin? Not in Washington; not in the state capitals or in the great universities with their ivy covered walls. It must start in the first grade of our elementary schools, where our intellectual life begins. That is why in such a small community as Levittown, New York, and in similar communities, such a circular as I have described was issued by a parents' committee.

★ Dr. Jordan Says ★ Severe Gallbladder Trouble Requires Prompt Removal

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Every year thousands of men and women have to submit to an operation for removal of the gallbladder. This may be because stones are present in the gallbladder, or it can also be because the wall, or lining, of the gallbladder, has become inflamed, producing pain and other symptoms.

Thousands more will presumably have to have their gallbladders removed over the coming year since the causes of inflammation of the gallbladder are not clearly understood and a good preventive measure is not yet available.

The gallbladder lies under the liver and ribs on the right side. It is shaped like a small pear and is hollow. In the human body its principal function seems to be to store bile. This is a substance manufactured in the liver, emptied into the intestines, and useful in digestion, particularly the digestion of fatty substances.

When the bile does not flow freely germs can grow inside the gallbladder and other irritations and troubles can develop.

IN ADDITION to the formation of stones in the gallbladder the gallbladder can become acutely or chronically inflamed. If the inflammation or infection comes on suddenly the condition is called acute cholecystitis. This is often accompanied by pain on the right side of the abdomen which sometimes extends through to the back under the right shoulder blade. Nausea, vomiting, slight fever, and even swelling of the entire abdomen may follow a bout of pain. The area around the gallbladder is usually tender to the touch.

The chronic form of cholecystitis has much the same, but less severe, symptoms. Almost always there is some disturbance in the digestive tract and people frequently complain of a "full feeling," "gas on the stomach," or similar vague distress. Jaundice, or yellowness of the skin, is fairly common in the chronic variety but it cannot be noticed until a lot of coloring matter has accumulated. One cannot therefore rely on it as a means of making a diagnosis.

MRS. B HAS written that she has gallbladder trouble and asks for a list of foods which she can eat.

Although diet may be important in her case, it is not possible to prepare a single list of foods and she, and others like her, should certainly obtain their diet list from the physician who is familiar with all of the facts and requirements of each individual problem.

Sometimes inflammation of the gallbladder can be improved by giving chemical substances by mouth which stimulate the emptying of the gallbladder. This is not always successful, however, and when it is not, operation to remove the organ has to be seriously considered.

Hardly Back and Look at That Homework

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

There's a great fear among many top Army officers and other Pentagon experts that the sudden preoccupation with speeding the development of long-range ballistic missiles will wreck the country's ability to fight small or limited wars.

Ever since America's defense has been focused on building a strong retaliatory air force as the best way to keep Russia from starting World War 3, the Army has been worried about this problem. With new billions now about to be thrown into the ballistic missile program, their fears about becoming impotent on the limited battlefield are more acute.

A recent session of the American Ordnance Association which was devoted to this problem pinpointed some weakness which the U. S. defense plan already suffers in this area and the research needed to correct the situation.

C. C. FURNAS, chancellor of the University of Buffalo and a military expert, told the meeting that the Army's family of tactical guided missiles could turn out to be dangerously vulnerable to enemy jamming and other electronic countermeasures. He said:

"Modern warfare is a complete and fiercely competitive electro-magnetic radiation jungle. No really complete and realistic tests have yet been conducted to determine how susceptible missile guidance systems will be to friendly or enemy jamming; under battlefield conditions. I feel that thus far our research and development program has been evading the issue in this most important area."

Furnas said that it is possible that a study of this problem could turn out "on the grim side" and force a complete overhaul of the whole Army missile program.

He pointed out that another weakness is the inability to detect targets. "Our present equipment for reconnaissance by visual, radar or infrared methods is inadequate and the best weapons are essentially useless unless the target can be detected and located with considerable exactness," he explains.

THE RECENT Russian revelation that they had developed a method of launching fighter planes from the battlefield with rockets and without air strips, indicates how concerned Soviet strategists are with developing limited war techniques.

The U. S. Air Force has also developed such a launching system, but work on it has been virtually abandoned, it was revealed at the Ordnance meeting.

Hall Hibbard, vice president of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, says, "Based on considerable analysis, the logistics-by-air is one of the most promising applications for nuclear propulsion."

"A development of this kind," he added, "would eliminate the need for intermediate staging stops as well as reduce greatly the overseas fuel storage requirements."

Unfortunately work on a nuclear plane has been lagging for the past couple of years. There is no sign of a speed-up.

HIBBARD REVEALED that there is a "ray of hope" for solving the complex problems a pilot has trying to navigate over a battlefield under conditions of poor visibility.

"It's a recently declassified development being sponsored by the Navy called the Contact Analogue System. In this the pilot sees a presentation on a flat TV tube, rather than being required to interpret dozens of instrument dials. Input data from altimeters, radars and other instruments are integrated and displayed on the screen so as to construct an artificial duplicate of the actual scene ahead of the airplane."

Work on this project is also in serious need of more funds.

Furnas said of dependence on tactical atomic weapons: "I should like to urge the use of very great discretion in the use of nuclear warheads, if we should become involved in another limited war. If the United States should use one first, the negative propaganda impact on the rest of the world would be tremendous. We should not fire it unless we are psychologically and physically prepared to go the whole way through World War III, if necessary."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Here is a true story of the Golden West as taken from the Kingston Argus of Wednesday, April 24, 1889.

"Guthrie, I. T. April 23—Oklahoma was thrown open at noon yesterday, and from the Cherokee strip came the great fleet of prairie schooners across the Canadian River, from the Chickasaw nation came troop after troop of sturdy ponies, each one carrying a boomer; from the Arapahoe and Cheyenne reservations on the west came a yelling mob of horsemen, who fired volley after volley to celebrate their final victory. The Kiowa of the south and the Cherokee and Creek nations on the east also furnished their contingent of boomers."

"At the starting signal they moved altogether, great waves of cheering, breaking upon the air. The wagons continued on over the level, green plain until they were about half way across the northern tier of claims and then upward of a hundred of them were brought to a standstill. The others rolled on to the lower tiers. Men, women and children poured from the stationary schooners and in an incredibly short time the foundations for the pioneer homes of Oklahoma had been laid by willing hands. Every farm had more than one claimant, all ready to swear that they crossed the border first and that their's were the first improvements. So it is all over the territory and especially on the section adjoining Guthrie and Oklahoma City. Between 20,000 and 30,000 people were dumped here today by the Santa Fe road, which ran 20 immense trains from Arkansas City."

More about the exciting settlement of Oklahoma. "The trains moved across the Cherokee strip cautiously and slowly and arrived here scarcely more than five minutes apart. As they approached the land of promise, thousands of heads protruded from the windows and curious eyes feasted on the green panorama that lay before them. There was much fighting to get out of the cars when the little building which answers for a station was reached. Nobody was hurt, however, and the coaches were soon emptied. It was a curious sight to watch the boomers after they had got fairly on foot. The majority of them seemed to be dazed by the vastness of their surroundings. They looked in all directions and then moved like men who were lost, some went for the hills, and others started to raise tents they had brought with them to open various kinds of businesses. Those who went for the hills were after claims."

The above seems to be from a eye-witness of what took place in 1889 further relating there are from 20 to 30 thousand more wandering aimlessly about in search of land. The rush at the land office is terrific. The building is surrounded by a mob of howling men, which is being constantly augmented by horsemen, who are galloping in from every quarter. Land Agent Dille and his assistants are unable to give attention to a hundredth part of the business that is being forced upon them. The detachment of troops which has been detailed around the building with a view to keeping the mob in an orderly line is completely worn out."

Perhaps some readers are descendants of those Oklahoma settlers who had so much courage to come there in their covered wagons and on horseback with so little in worldly goods. It is only 79 years ago, yet how living conditions have changed and perhaps, people, too.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Howard C. Shurtler, county director Veteran's Service Agency, and William Hartman, state veteran counselor NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, submit another in a series of articles on rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen and other dependents.

Pensions. Veterans and their survivors who are receiving non-service-connected pensions will receive annual income questionnaire forms from the Veterans Administration in the early part of January if they have not already received them. These questionnaires must be completed and returned within 30 days from the date indicated on the form. Annual income questionnaire forms which are not returned within 30 days may result in a person's pension being stopped. Due to some technicalities in determining what is income in connection with pensions it is suggested that the questionnaire form be completed carefully and if possible that assistance from this agency be requested in the completion of the questionnaire. Persons without dependents receiving over $1400 a year income or those with dependents who receive over $2700 a year income are not eligible to continue to receive a pension.

Education. A veteran of the Korean conflict who is on active military or naval duty with the US armed forces may not take any type of educational training under the Korean GI Bill. Even though a serviceman meets all the eligibility requirements for training under the GI Bill, he is specifically prohibited by law from pursuing a training course under the Korean GI Bill as long as he is on active duty.

Civil Service. January 17, 1958 is the final date to apply for the following positions in the New York State civil service: Assistant Heating and Ventilating Engineer; Park Sanitation Superintendent; Institution; Prison Industries Consultant; Industrial Geographer; and Senior Financial Secretary. Examinations for these titles will be held on February 15, 1958. Career entrance tests for college junior, seniors, and graduates will be held on February 15, 1958. The deadline for filing an application for this examination is also January 17. Applications must be filed by February 7, 1958 for an examination to be held on March 1 for Bank Examiner Trainees.

Insurance.—The average age of WW II veterans is rapidly approaching forty. Many veterans of WW II still hold five-year term National Service Life Insurance policies. The premium on this type of policy increases as the policyholder gets older. Veterans with term policies may mium but the permanent plan government insurance. Permanent policies have higher premiums but the permanent plan rate, unlike the rate on term insurance which increases every five years, remains the same for the life of the policy. Moreover, permanent plans have a cash value and, therefore, a loan value which enables a policyholder to borrow on his policy if he needs it. There are six types of permanent plan National Service Life Insurance policies: ordinary life, 30 pay life, 20 pay life, endowment at age 65, endowment at age 60, and 20 year endowment.

Bonus.—Application forms for the West Virginia state bonus for Korean veterans are now available. They may be obtained from the Bonus Division, Department of Veterans Affairs, State Capitol, Charleston, West Virginia. Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency office at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Nimitz Urges Shrine
TOKYO (U)—The commander of the U. S. fleet which sent most of Japan's Imperial Navy to the bottom in World War II appealed to the Japanese today to restore the monument to their greatest naval victory.

Writing in a Japanese magazine, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz called for "appropriate measures" to preserve the battleship Mikasa, Adm. Heihachiro Togo's flagship in the 1905 defeat of Czarist Russia in Tsushima Strait.

The Mikasa was turned into a shrine at the Yokosuka Naval Base south of Tokyo after it was put out of service. After World War II most of its metal parts were stolen, it became a dance hall for a time, and it now stands rusting and deserted.

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

THE TASK OF HAPPINESS

One can't tell always by the looks of the front of a store what it is like on the inside. Neither can one judge from the looks of a house what the folks are like who live there. Some of the nicest people live in the shabbiest houses. And some of the crabbier folks reside in palatial dwellings. The outside of a building is no sound criterion upon which to shape a judgment as to what will be found when one opens the door and walks in.

Lives, in this respect, are like stores and houses. One cannot tell by the looks of a person, the clothes he wears, the countenance he keeps toward the world, just how he is on the inside. Many a sad heart is hidden behind a cheerful countenance; many a discouraged soul puts a brave front to the world; many a burdened spirit tries to appear carefree and happy. As another has said, "If you know everything, you would find more heroism in a smiling face sometimes than in the gallantest deed out in South Africa." Not all the courage in this world is in distant battlefields. We meet it on every street, do business with it in stores, worship with it in our churches and synagogues, live with it in our homes.

Sometimes we think the other fellow isn't having much of a battle to fight because he always seems so cheerful. The truth of the matter may be that if we had his problems to tussle with, his cares on our shoulders, we might be crushed under the load. There is an old proverb which states that one cannot tell by the size of a frog how far he can jump. And neither can one tell by the countenance worn on the face just how heavy the burdens are which weigh upon the heart. As Oliver Wendell Holmes says:

"O hearts that break and give no sign
Save whitening lip and fading tresses."

One of the greatest social assets in this world is the courage to smile when we don't feel like it; to post cheer on the face when there is gloom in the heart. Men and women of real faith are always accomplishing that miracle among us. And no one could possibly estimate how much courage is inspired in fainting hearts by those who somehow manage to smile when "everything goes dead wrong." Such, as the poet says, are the smiles that are worth while.

Robert Louis Stevenson, whose whole life was one long struggle against ill-health, used to pray that he might not fail in what he called his "great task of happiness." The record shows that, by stalwart faith and an unwavering determination, his prayer was answered. What child, enjoying "Treasure Island," ever guesses it was written by a weak and sickly man? Such mortals leave a potent legacy of challenge and inspiration to us that we may not fail in our "great task of happiness."

Upstate Marine Convicted on 9 Cruelty Charges

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A general court-martial today convicted Marine Sgt. Robert J. Barbuti on nine charges of cruelty to prisoners in a Navy brig. He was acquitted of 17 other cruelty counts and two of assault.

The court said it would sentence the 23-year-old Leatherneck from Schenectady, N. Y., Monday. He faces a possible nine years' imprisonment, one for each count on which he was convicted. The case will be reviewed automatically.

Court Out 5 Hours
Barbuti stood impassively as he heard the conviction verdict, after fidgeting nervously while the eight-officer general court deliberated for five hours. Specifications on which the former assistant brig warden was convicted included hitting prisoners in the stomach, stepping on bare feet and slapping inmates in the Navy brig at Sasebo, South Japan.

Last Trial Due
Barbuti was acquitted of charges that he had pushed a pencil up a prisoner's nose until it bled, squirted shaving cream into a sailor's mouth and ears, banged inmates' heads together and threatened prisoners with bayonet and pistol.

Barbuti had denied all the cruelty charges. Barbuti was the 15th of 16 former brig guards to be court-martialed. Eight were convicted and six acquitted of lesser charges but the Navy Pacific Command at Hawaii reversed four convictions. The last trial, of Sgt. Adair A. McLane, 23, of Philadelphia, is scheduled to begin next week.

Would Go Underground

NEW YORK (AP)—State Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson urged today that five per cent of new industrial construction be placed underground. The five per cent, he added, should consist primarily of nuclear power stations and critical component plants.

A Soviet surprise nuclear attack now could be decisive, Dickinson declared at the mid-winter conference of the New York State Chamber of Commerce executives.

Dispersion of industrial plants no longer is adequate, Dickinson said. Dickinson pointed out that the International Salt Mine at Retsof in Western New York, the largest in the world, would be ideal for underground installations. He said there were several other suitable underground sites in the state.

Fake Bomb Warning

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A radioed message that a bomb might be aboard forced a United Airlines plane carrying 57 passengers and a crew of five to make an emergency landing last night at the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport.

The report was a fake, but it caused a lot of trouble—checking plane and baggage—and nearly four hours of delay.

Tomato Growers In State Face Loss of Market

ITHACA (AP)—New York tomato growers are losing their markets because they have failed to keep pace with other states, an agricultural professor says.

Philip A. Minges, vegetable crops specialist in the State Agriculture College at Cornell University, says unless New York growers grow more and better tomatoes they will be forced out of business.

In 1957, he said, New York's average yield was 8.6 tons an acre for canning-factory tomatoes and 6 tons for the fresh market.

California growers, Minges said, are averaging about 18 tons an acre and, because of high yields, are able to sell at a lower price than New York farmers.

He called for closer planting, better plants, better soil selection, a regular spray schedule, and irrigation.

Simple Squeeze Is Perfect Slam

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Harry Fishbein of New York's Mayfair club is one of the greatest card players of all time. Here is one of his latest triumphs told in his own words.

"When I bid five no-trump my partner Morrie Ellis jumped to seven clubs. I had shown that we held all the aces and he had just the right cards for the grand slam. East doubled and that could mean only one thing. A void in diamonds! I went to seven no-trump and West opened the diamond ten.

"I let the diamond ride around to my king and when East showed out I spread my hand and claimed seven on a simple squeeze good against any combination of cards."

Harry is right, but I wonder just how many of you readers will see his "simple squeeze?" Here it is.

Since East had shown out of diamonds the diamond finesse is proven and you have 12 tricks. Now you cash the three top spades. If the jack drops you have 13 tricks. The way the cards actually lie East shows out of spades on the third lead of the suit. Now you run five clubs, discarding dummy's queen of hearts on the last club. The ace of hearts lead now forces West to throw the jack of spades to establish dummy's ten or a diamond to make dummy's three diamonds all good.

If West had shown out of

Russians at Work On Big Science City in Siberia

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Russians are now at work building their new big science city in Siberia, which they have blueprinted as one of the world's most important science centers.

The first full year of construction work alone—1958—is going to cost the Soviet government the equivalent of 70 million dollars. Appropriations will increase as the work progresses over three or four years.

Near Novosibirsk

The new research center will be near the west Siberian metropolis of Novosibirsk, which has a population of more than 700,000—with its suburbs nearly a million. It will be connected with Novosibirsk by a concrete superhighway and electric railway and will be on the shores of the so-called Ob Sea, created by the damming of the Ob River for a hydroelectric project in the vicinity.

Soviet Prof. G. Fospelov recently gave a number of details on the new city in the Moscow Literary Gazette.

It will have a population—including scientists, research assistants, students, dependents and auxiliary personnel—of several tens of thousands of people by 1961 or 1962.

It will have, initially, 13 large research institutes devoted to mathematics and natural sciences only. Later it may add institutes for literature, social sciences and the like, but they are allotted second place.

It will have one of the Soviet Union's largest universities to prepare new scientists.

Many Volunteers

Scientists from Moscow, Leningrad and other Soviet research centers have volunteered to work in the new Siberian science city.

The new center will exercise control over numerous other science centers and institutes in Siberia.

All indications are that the Soviet government intends to spare no expense on the construction and further developments of this "Naukograd"—as it well may be named, meaning "Science City." The Kremlin undoubtedly expects the investment to pay off in basic scientific discoveries in years to come.

Will Go to Texas

ITHACA (AP)—Fourteen-year-old William Patana, accused of slaying his father, will move to Texas and live with a former school teacher who offered to take the boy into her home.

Tompkins County Judge Norman G. Stag, sitting in Children's Court, yesterday placed Patana, of nearby Newfield, on indefinite probation and gave permission for the move to Texas.

Stagg said the teacher had written him and offered to take the boy. She came here from Austin, Tex., to appear at the hearing. Stagg declined to identify her.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After four years as a car salesman, William Lundigan is going back to acting.

Of course, Bill is not the ordinary kind of car salesman. He makes the pitch for Chrysler each week on the Thursday night TV show "Climax." He is also a high powered traveling salesman, hustling 130,000 miles around the country each year to make friends for the company.

Great to Be Back

He gave up his role as seller for a brief period recently to go back to his old racket. He appeared as a wire service reporter with a star-filled cast in "No Time At All," a filmed show for Playhouse 90, Feb. 13.

How did it feel?
"Just great," he said. "I hope now to do more outside jobs. My contract permits it, but I just haven't had time. Even during this show, I did two Climaxes and went to Miami for the auto show."

Bill did well as a leading man at Universal and 20th-Fox but was nipped by the frost that struck the film industry after the war. Let out by Fox, he did a picture in Europe and some TV shows. He went to CBS one day to see about a series.

"I didn't know anything about it, but they were looking for someone to do a selling job for Chrysler," he said. "They had considered dozens of actors, and someone suggested me. I wasn't too convinced about it myself."

"But I tried out for it, and the next thing I knew, I was invited back to Detroit. I had lunch with all the big men in the company. It seemed a nice, social affair, but they started throwing questions that made me realize what a research job they had done on me. They had found out things I had forgotten about."

Enjoys Selling Job
Bill passed the examination and was hired. He enjoys his work immensely, has traveled throughout the land, in Canada and Hawaii. He admitted that he does fairly well at name remembering.

"When I was in radio back in 1932 around New York," he said, "I used to cover events where the then Gov. Roosevelt was speaking. It amazed me how Jim Farley could come into a meeting cold and call off everyone by name. I've tried to develop that knack."

Bill has had his share of bloopers on TV. One of his first assignments was to introduce Shirley McLaine in a ballet number. He gave the title as "The Belly Dancers at Home."

Speechless by Gift

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Shopowner Louis Prow said he "lost his speech" when an unidentified man walked into his store and stuffed $20 into a March of Dimes container.

Prow said the anonymous contributor came in yesterday, said he had read about such a container being stolen Tuesday, and stuffed the money inside the new container.

"I couldn't say a word," Prow said in describing the stranger's generosity.

Singer to Know Soon If Hearing Restored

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Johnnie Ray, who underwent a major ear operation, will know next week whether his hearing has been restored.

Ray celebrated his 31st birthday yesterday in Mt. Sinai hospital, where surgery was performed Tuesday to make a new opening in the ear to replace a nonfunctioning natural channel.

Ray has been hard of hearing since childhood.

Carlino Attacks Commerce Talk Of New Recession

NEW YORK (AP)—Assembly Majority Leader Joseph F. Carlino says the New York State Department of Commerce is "subverting" its function by talking about a new recession.

Carlino spoke last night at a dinner that concluded the second day of the three-day annual conference of New York State Chamber of Commerce executives.

"If we're in a recession," Carlino said, "I would say this is the most prosperous recession the country has experienced since 1776."

Reds Ask UN Help

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungary's Communist government has asked a U. N. agency to help it get back young people who fled the country after the failure of the 1956 revolt.

The parents of all the young people had asked for their return, Karpati said.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

UNITED NATIONS TODAY?

Winston Churchill has expressed disappointment with the United Nations. Former President Hoover says it should be re-organized to include only those nations that have no imperial ambitions to rule mankind.

With one huge slave state holding a veto power over the U.N., it is plain that the organization can do little or nothing that the Communists oppose—even to prevent the tragedy of Hungary.

Today, the U.N. furnishes a huge sounding board for Communist propaganda. Every angry word there spoken reverberates around the world. Positions are taken—publicly—from which it is difficult, or impossible, to recede.

In former times, difficulties were talked over in private between the Secretary of State of one country and the Ambassador of another. Either could recede from some extreme position without embarrassment or loss of face.

No international spotlight was on them; no sounding board magnified the slightest statement into a world-wide radio network, or into front page headlines in every major city of the globe.

Today, however, like a Congressman making a speech on Capitol Hill for "home consumption," the U.N. diplomats mount the rostrum, clench their fists, beat their manly bosoms, and hurl mean words at each other with the result that a dog-fight in some unheard of corner of the world sounds like the guns of Waterloo.

This puts nations with some regard for truth at a terrific propaganda disadvantage. Neighbor, we can't out-shout the Reds and shouldn't try.

MR. HUTTON

Don't Discard Old Dresser

There may still be life in that old dresser or chest of drawers which is now collecting dust in the basement or attic. Probably all it needs is a dusting and conversion to special storage use. One such use may be achieved by lining its drawers with aromatic red cedar closet lining. Then use the cedar-lined unit for storing items which need protection from moths.

Although, as its name implies, aromatic red cedar closet lining is specifically designed for moth-proofing closets, this fragrant wood is equally efficient as a drawer lining. Moths won't penetrate cedar lined drawers, as the cedar aroma is like an obnoxious gas to them, yet it is a pleasing smell to people.

Lining drawers with cedar is especially easy. All the job really amounts to is cutting pieces of the wood and nailing them to the inside portions of the drawers. Fitting pieces of cedar neatly together is simplified by the fact that the wood is tongued and grooved on edges and sides.

In lining a drawer, do the bottom first. Then do the sides. Cedar closet lining is sold in packages containing random lengths of the wood, so some pieces will have to be cut. Always cut off tongue ends, so that left over pieces from one course or section may be used to start another course. The cut off ends fit flush against drawer sides.

Use small finishing nails to attach the cedar to the drawer bottom and sides. Don't even think of painting or varnishing the cedar after it's in the drawer, as this would seal in those moth-repellent fumes. No finishing of any sort is needed.

A dresser or chest of drawers lined with cedar is especially practical because of the wide variety of articles, including woolen blankets and fur coats, which it can hold. Its portability is also appreciated, for during the storage season it may be moved to a cool, out-of-the-way place.

Warm Paneling

Wood paneling will kill the chill of a cold wall. The natural insulating value of wood tends to reduce heat loss from the body to a cold surface through radiation. Wood walls in bathrooms have proved to be warmer and can be sealed against moisture by water repellent pigmented stains.

Doesn't Keep Well

It's a good idea never to buy more shellac than is required for a particular job. This excellent liquid doesn't keep too well where exposed in the container to both light and air. Also be sure that it's either in a glass container or a special lead lined metal container.

Rugged Living

There is no reason why basement recreation rooms should be less decoratively appealing than any other room in the house. Colorful tile, which will withstand the strain of rugged living and yet permanently retain the "new look" of other less-used floors.

Colors Are Tricky

A safe rule in selecting a paint color is to choose a sample considerably lighter than the shade you have in mind. Any color on a large area takes on a darker appearance than it does on a small sample. Walls also reflect colors and deepen the effect.

The 'Earl'... A Seven-Room Modern Home

Rooms Seven
Bedrooms Three
Closets Six
Cubage 26,384 ft.
Dimensions 69' x 29' 4"

The Home of the Week Plan Service today features the "Earl," a seven-room house whose low and sweeping lines give it an air of distinction aimed at satisfying today's modern family.

Some of its modern design stems from the wide overhang of the eaves on all sides that is as practical as it is attractive, for such a feature will reduce sun glare and summer heat.

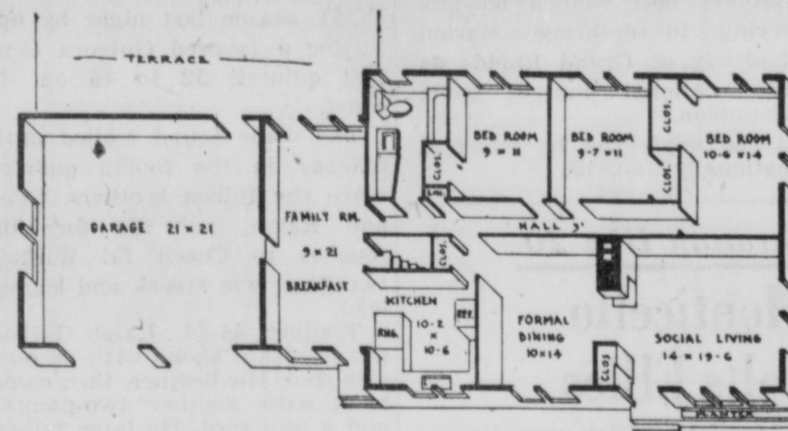

The "Earl" also features a combination family room and breakfast area that is flanked on one side by the 21-foot square, two-car garage and the main portion of the house.

Side Entrance

On one side of the house is the entrance to the combination family room and breakfast area. This room extends from the front to the back of the "Earl," and for reason of convenience, the breakfast set would be best located at the front of the room. It is this section that adjoins the kitchen, being separated only by work counter and the range. The rear half of this nine by 21-foot combination room could be used as the family room.

An entrance to this room is also supplied directly from the garage. An entrance to the rear yard is provided from the back of the family room while a door also opens to the yard from the garage.

In the "Earl," the bathroom and the three bedrooms are arranged straight across the back of the structure.

The kitchen, having a U-shaped work area, measures 10 feet, two inches by 10½ feet.

The stairway to the full basement of the "Earl" opens from the combination family room and breakfast area.

Large Bathroom

The bathroom is unusually large and therefore will comfortably accommodate a four to five-foot vanity which would be best built in to adjoin the wash basin.

The largest bedroom in the house is 14 feet long by 10½ feet wide. The remaining two bedrooms are almost equal in size with each other, one measuring nine feet by 11 feet and the other being nine feet, seven inches by 11 feet.

An added feature could be easily provided in this house in the form of a terrace. Because of the entrance supplied from the family room, the terrace would be most convenient if built across the back of the house from the family room to the extremity of the garage.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this home, are available. Address requests mentioning name of home to Home of the Week, Inc. Dept. KF, 87 Weybosset street, Providence, R. I.

Returning in popularity, is the dining room. And in the "Earl," this feature is called for. It is 10 feet by 14 feet, and is located between the living room and the kitchen.

ing scheme for the rest of the house. Third, the home-owner can stop worrying about leaks after the re-roofing job is done. Asphalt shingles are durable and give a tight roof which will resist years of harsh weather in all seasons.

Space for Linens

Base cabinets for the storage of towels, table cloths, place mats and other kitchen linens are now being made by some wood kitchen cabinet manufacturers. The units, which fit in naturally with other base cabinets, have a series of deep, sliding drawers, concealed behind a full-length door.

Wood Paneling

When installing wood paneling, it is usually best to start in the corner of a room and work toward the middle. The final fitting can be made over windows and doors so that only a short board has to be ripped to fit. The off-width is hardly noticeable.

Avoid Trouble With Moisture

If you're planning to build a new house of wood siding, a good grade of well dried material should be used. When the siding is being applied, it's important that all joints around the window and door frames and that all corner boards should be carefully fitted. So should mitered corners and spliced joints. It's also the greatest wisdom to end-paint the boards before they are applied.

If your house is already built, check all joints and caulk any cracks that are found open. Cracked or rotten boards should be replaced. Nails should be countersunk and, after the first coat of paint, the holes puttied. Diverter strips and drip caps should be flashed so there is no danger of water finding its way behind the clapboard.

The motto of New York State is "Excelsior," meaning "Ever Upward."

Overhead Sewer For Heavy Rains

Troubled with water in your basement during heavy rains?

If the water comes from a backed-up sewer, the problem can be corrected by having an overhead sewer installed, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

By an overhead sewer, the Bureau explains, is meant a pipe running under the basement ceiling. With this type of an installation, there is no possibility of the sewer backing up since the water in the street would not rise above the level of the basement ceiling.

In order for the sewer to withstand the pressure of water backing up during heavy rains, it should be made of sturdy cast iron, the Bureau says.

To take care of seepage into the basement, the installation of a sump pump is suggested.

Naturally if the sewer is installed under the basement ceiling, it will be unable to take care of the drainage of laundry tubs, washers, or plumbing fixtures in the basement.

These fixtures can be drained into the sump and the sump pump will discharge the sewerage into the overhead sewer line. To prevent back-flow, the line from the sump pump to the house sewer should be equipped with a back-water valve.

Setting Fence Posts

A good rule of thumb to use when setting fence posts in soil is to set one-third the length of the post below grade. This means that if you want the post to project 4 feet above grade, use a 6-foot-long post and set two feet of it in the ground.

Placing Ladder

The foot of a ladder should be placed as far out from the house as one-quarter its length. For example the foot of a 28-foot ladder should be out seven feet from the house.

Painting Cabinets

In painting a cupboard, enamel the inside first, then the shelves, then the insides of the doors. After the insides and edges of the door are dry, paint the outside surfaces.

Kingston High Whips Newburgh, 63 to 52 in DUSO Contest

Uhl and Kelly Spark Gilligans To Key Victory

By TONY CORAPI
(Freeman Sports Staff)

Kingston High's Maroons, sparked by a brilliant George Uhl, snapped a four-game Newburgh Free Academy win streak last night in the Kate Walton field house, 63-52, to get back in the tight DUSO race.

Coach Jack Gilligan's quintet fought off a determined Goldback bid midway in the third quarter and went on to its fourth league victory. They have been beaten twice and its record now matches NFA in loop competition.

After the lead had changed hands three times and tied once in the first quarter, the Maroons moved into a 31-19 halftime lead. John Kelly with a pair of one-handers and a set of outside heaves by Uhl, who tallied 24 points, sandwiched by Bob Strong's jump shot took some of the starch out of the invaders.

That second period turned out to be NFA's downfall as they hit only 25 per cent and scored only twice from the field on layups by Jack Connan and Pete Gammma and converted four free tosses out of seven.

The locals kept its advance margin to 10 points until the six minute mark in the third period, when the Goldbacks, spearheaded by Connan and Dick LaGoy gave the Maroons its only real scare of the night.

After LaGoy had scored the third of his seven goals in the last two periods, Connan came back with a layup to cut Kingston's lead 43-37. A tap in by Bob Short and a driving layup by Strong gave the locals a 47-38 advantage at the two-minute mark.

The Goldbacks, however, playing a pressing game and rebounding well, put on another spurt. LaGoy connected for a jump and Roy Riley curled in a two-pointer to make the score 47-42, with 40 seconds left, but NFA could get no closer.

The two teams exchanged baskets for the first three minutes of the final quarter, then Uhl and Co. went to work. A pair of foul shots by Joe Klonowski, a set by Kelly and another by Uhl gave the homesters a 55-46 edge at the 4:40 mark.

Another outside shot and three charity tosses by Uhl put the Gilligan squad into a good position with a 63-48 edge. LaGoy closed the gap with successive jump shots to end the scoring.

The Maroons displayed its best performance in the third quarter, when the squad hit for 73 per cent of its shots. It had an overall shooting percentage of 54 per cent against the visitors' 40 per cent.

Strong, led both squads in rebounds with 16 misfires while the Goldbacks' Connan came up with 11. Kelly had 6 and Hobie Armstrong 3. Uhl led the team in the assist department with 7 while Kelly and Strong each had 4.

Wallkill Rally Upsets Ontario Central, 52-46

First Loss For Indians, Bilboa Stars

Wallkill High's Blue Devils pulled the surprise of the current UCAL season last night by upsetting a favored Ontario Central quintet, 52 to 46 on its court.

The home squad trailed until midway in the fourth quarter when the Bilboa brothers, Gene and Ralph, put the finishing touches to Coach Ed Witko's two-game win streak and league lead.

Trailing 45-44, Ralph Bilboa put his team ahead with an outside shot. His brother, then came back with another two-point and a foul shot. He later tallied two more fouls which put the game out of the Indians' reach.

The Boicevian squad, paced by their fine scorer, Artie Gribbins, got off to a 21 to 15 halftime advantage. Their third quarter spread was but three points, 33 to 30, but it wasn't until the four-minute mark that the home-esters started to move.

Gribbins, who has been Coach Witko's biggest point getter all season, was the game's top scorer with 15 points. McCrosson had 13. Gene Bilboa was the big gun for the upsets with a 14 point output. He hit six times from the foul line, while the team as a whole connected for 17 free points, against the Indians' 13.

Wallkill's JV's won its 14th straight game over a two-year span. The score was 67-39 over Coach Tom Wheeler's Indians. Bob Wright garnered 28 points in victory while John Caruso had 9 points.

TILLSON NEWS

Palmatier Resigns As Fire Commissioner

TILLSON—Fred Palmatier resigned this week from the board of fire commissioners at a meeting in the firehouse. His resignation was accepted with regret by Douglas Sarr, present chairman of the board.

Palmatier has been a member of the board for several years, and served as chairman. The board will appoint a new member to complete his unexpired term.

Members of the Tillson School Board of Education, and of the special citizen's committee on school problems, were present at the meeting. This group was interested in obtaining data on the firehall, with the thought that the building might again be used as classrooms for school students, due to the present overcrowding of the Tillson school. No decisions were reached by either organization, since it has not been established by the board of education that the firehall will definitely be used for such purpose.

Spotlighters Plan New Play for April

A special meeting of the Spotlighters, Inc., was held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Warren. A discussion of a new play took place.

This new production will be ready the latter part of April. It was also announced that the group will produce "January Thaw" on February 15 at the Highland High School for the benefit of the Ulster County 4-H Leaders Association. This will be the fourth time this play will have been produced by the group since it first was presented last November at Tillson School.

The organization recently became incorporated. Members of the by-laws committee are Mrs. Helen Sutherland, Mrs. Helen Aldridge and Mrs. Elaine Hoffman.

A rehearsal for the play, "January Thaw", will take place at Tillson School Tuesday.

Tillson Vols to Meet

The regular monthly meeting of Tillson Volunteer Fire Company will be held at the firehall Tuesday at 8 o'clock. Dues for 1958 are $2.50.

Wetzel Guilty, Given Life Term In Cop Slaying

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP)—Frank Edward Wetzel, 36-year-old crime veteran from Fayette, N. Y., was convicted last night of the first-degree murder of a North Carolina highway patrolman, Wister Lee Reece. The jury saved him from the gas chamber by recommending mercy.

Another Try Set

Judge J. A. Rousseau immediately sentenced him to life in prison. Then Solicitor (Prosecutor) W. Jack Hooks of nearby Lee County announced he would try for the death penalty against Wetzel in the shooting of another trooper, Patrolman J. T. Brown. Brown, father of four, was shot down Nov. 5, an hour after Wetzel gunned down the unsuspecting Reece, who had stopped the New Yorker for speeding.

Wetzel, his manner calm and unruffled despite four days of tense courtroom drama, stood up and faced the packed court chamber after the jury's verdict was announced.

"Everybody has been nice to me in North Carolina and I appreciate it," he said.

Nearby, Reece's widow, mother of three, broke down and wept. Then she collapsed and had to be led from the courtroom.

Sees Window Collapse

Wetzel watched her go before making his little speech. Later, he told newsmen: "I don't think I should have been convicted."

Wetzel has a young brother, William, who is scheduled to die in the Mississippi electric chair Jan. 17 for the slaying of a fellow prisoner. Frank escaped Oct. 21 from a mental institution at Willard, N. Y., where he had been sent for observation, and had bragged to inmates there that he would go to Mississippi and free William.

High Birth Rate To Increase City School Demands

The implications of the record high birth rate last year on the educational demands of the local schools was pointed out today by Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of Kingston schools. From figures released by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Dr. Soper indicated that resident births in the city reached a new high last year. A total of 692 births were reported in Kingston during 1957. The 1956 total was 661. Previously the high had been in 1947 when 648 births were reported, he said.

Following World War 2 many in authority felt that the birth rate would drop off, however, statistics have proven otherwise. Kingston in particular has an ever increasing birth rate which portends for the future, increasing demands for educational facilities, teachers and equipment, Dr. Soper said.

The Bureau of Vital Statistics indicated that there were 1,122 non-resident births in local hospitals which is also indicative of a high birth rate in Kingston's suburban area.

Superintendent Soper encouraged parents and patrons of the schools to take an active part in school affairs, securing for themselves first-hand knowledge of the educational problems at hand. He stressed, in particular, those problems associated with providing the necessary educational facilities and program for the great number of young children who would be classified as pre-school.

An examination of enrollment figures in the elementary schools shows that on December 13, 1957, there were 429 first grade children while in the 6th grade there were 332.

"This ever increasing number of young children in the elementary grades and in a pre-school category will place, in the future, many hardships on the present program and facilities unless these problems are anticipated and plans made for their education," Dr. Soper said.

The property, which consists of about 49 acres and a station, joins the state park and beach.

The D & H has abandoned passenger service on the branch line that served Lake George.

Blown Off Course

U. S. Pilot Says He Voluntarily Took Plane Down

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—U. S. Air Force Maj. Howard Curran said here today that he voluntarily landed his T33 jet trainer in Communist Albania after being blown off course with his radio communications broken.

Curran arrived from Albania by Yugoslav commercial airliner, leaving behind his plane which had been reported forced down by Red fighters.

Curran said that when he landed in Albania he did not know that he was over that Communist territory but had to land on the first field he saw, having fuel for only another 10 minutes of flight.

He was "treated very fairly" during his 19 days stay in Albania, Curran said.

He explained that he was unable to fly out of Albania in his T33 jet trainer plane because upon landing on Dec. 23 his left main landing gear tire burst. Otherwise the plane is undamaged and he could have flown out if he had a new tire, he said.

Curran said the Albanians told him that they would give him a replacement tire but later they claimed that they did not have one.

During his stay in Albania, Curran said, he was constantly under military custody.

GOP Plans Bills To Protect Aging, Ailing Residents

ALBANY (AP)—Republican lawmakers today came up with measures they pledged to prevent insurance companies from canceling health coverage of the aging and ailing.

The GOP majority leaders are backing the bills, which would require insurance companies to write health policies for life. They have made no commitment on one provision: level premiums that would remain constant over the years.

The measures, to be introduced Monday, were drawn by the Joint Legislative Committee on Health Insurance Plans, headed by Sen. George Metcalf of Auburn. Assemblywoman Genesta M. Strong of Nassau County is vice chairman.

In outlining the GOP bills, Metcalf and Mrs. Strong accused Democratic Gov. Harriman of being indifferent to problems of the aging.

They asserted that Harriman, "despite pious lamentations for the welfare of the aged, has failed to advocate a single concrete plan" for health insurance to help the aging.

Harriman, in his annual message Wednesday, said he would offer administration bills to give "wider health insurance coverage for senior citizens and provide reasonable protection from the hazards of cancellation or termination."

Administration bills haven't a chance of passage. Republicans control the Senate and Assembly by wide margins.

Another feature of the GOP package would give policyholders the right, upon leaving a job, to convert their group insurance to individual policies.

State Will Return Broadacres to Oneida

UTICA (AP)—The state has agreed to return Broadacres Tuberculosis Sanatorium to Oneida County for use as a hospital for chronic diseases.

Harold V. Kirch, chairman of the county Board of Supervisors, said yesterday the State Health Department had notified him it would begin next month to transfer patients to other state-operated tuberculosis hospitals.

The Board of Supervisors must approve the transfer, but approval is expected to be routine since they originally requested the state to return the hospital to the county.

Milk Output Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—National milk production in 1957 was 127 billion pounds, one per cent more than the 1956 record, the Agriculture Department reported yesterday.

The sanatorium, near Utica, was built by the county in 1925 and was turned over to the state in 1948.

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Rondout Savings Bank held January 6, 1958, the question of dividend rate on deposits for the first quarter of 1958 was discussed. It was decided to consider rate at 3¼% per annum for the first quarter of this year, if conditions and earnings, after reserves, justify such action. Action will be taken at the end of the first quarter.
